

Baking Scones in a Cotswold Cottage

THE COTSWOLDS, ENGLAND

55 MINUTES FROM CENTRAL LONDON BY TRAIN 20 MINUTES FROM OXFORD BY TRAIN

Step inside a 15th century Cotswold thatched cottage to learn to bake English scones. See how the owners of the cottage have lovingly restored the old farm labourer's home and hear stories of the cottage's ancestry. Whilst enjoying making the scones, using vintage cooking utensils in the cottage kitchen, there is also chance to sample some local English wine while waiting for the scones to bake in the oven. Enjoy a short guided walking tour around the Cotswold ironstone village of Hanwell, visiting a 13th century church and a castle where

King James I and Oliver Cromwell both stayed, before returning back to the cottage to enjoy your cream tea that you have prepared with homemade jam and clotted cream.

DURATION: 3 hours GROUP SIZE: 1-5 people AVAILABILITY: All year NET RATE: £64 per person

ADVANCED BOOKING: 3 weeks prior PARKING: Free parking available

LANGUAGES: Basic English required to fully appreciate this experience

REFRESHMENTS: A pot of tea on arrival, followed by a glass of local white wine. Cream tea with scones, jam and clotted cream. Guests will bake eight large scones and take any they haven't eaten away

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT: Suitable clothing and footwear for weather conditions

MEETING LOCATION: Great Thatch Cottage, Main Street, Hanwell, Oxfordshire, England, OX17 1HN

PICK UP/DROP OFF: A collection service is available from Banbury train station (direct connections to London, Oxford & Stratford-Upon-On-Avon) for an additional charge of £10, based on 2 people sharing

"Wow. What a treat this experience was. The house is so beautiful, the history of it and Hanwell was so fascinating! My group spent 10 days between London, Paris and the Cotswolds and this experience ranks at the top of the list. It was absolutely something we will not soon forgot."

GROUP VISITING FROM PORTLAND, OREGON, USA ***

